Hello Pumpkin, You've Fallen for the Aesthetic

October, feel free to bring us those warm, cozy, spooky, family-friendly feelings we wait for all year. This is the beginning of gathering and experiencing. I'm leaning all the way in too.

I'll take a ticket to ride the Ferris wheel and eat fried Oreos at the State Fair. I'll follow your trail through the corn maze and even stop to gaze upon the colorful pumpkins in your patch.

Let me pick apples from your trees, drink cider while I clutch onto a warm cinnamon-sugar donut.

I want to stare at you October Sky and wait for the full moon before I embark on a tour through the spooky haunted house.

Don't mind me as I curl up with a fall-theme novel with the rain trickling in the background. That's my book coming to life.

Maybe that's why fall feels so special, it's warm and inviting. I'm choosing to participate.

So yes Pumpkin, I'll follow your footsteps to making October feel like an unforgettable fall.

Pumpkin Mask Gets the Glow

When I say pumpkin-spiced everything for this season that includes skincare.

Coming off the excessive summer heat, my pores need a detox and refresh. Fall in Texas still flirts with the 90+ degree temperature. So, it's nice to find a product that leaves my skin feeling clean, refreshed yet festive.

The Banish Pumpkin Enzyme Masque is a 2-in-1 treatment designed to exfoliate, deep cleanse, remove dead skin, treat acne, detox clogged pores and fade hyperpigmentation.

Apply to your skin and leave it on for ten minutes. Turn on some relaxing music, sit back and let the pumpkin enzyme masque go to work.

Just a sweet reminder to take care of your skin, even when the seasons change.

Sensitive Skin Friendly

WHY I APPROVE

Aside from its fall-like aesthetic, I like how this face mask makes a noticeable difference in my pores and dark spots. Who would've known pumpkin not only taste good but it works well in skincare too?

Scream Beetlejuice!

Dressing Up for Halloween, No Costume Necessary

I'll be honest, dressing up for Halloween has no age limit. But if you're not headed to a Halloween party, it doesn't mean you can't participate in the festivities.

For this outfit, I took a Halloween graphic shirt and styled it in a chic way. To take it to new levels, I thought about an element that would make it look like a halloween costume without actually wearing a one.

Cue the bold striped blazer, a nod to the cult classic '90s film Beetlejuice.

Adding styling elements like chunky lace-up boots, a slim designer belt and a silk skirt makes this outfit feel polished, chic, yet festive at once.

What's cool about this concept is you can wear this outfit formula to work, brunch, date night or even a spooky party. You'll look like you've dressed up for Halloween without literally wearing a costume.

HALLOW-CHIC OUTFIT FORMULA

- Dark nail polish
- Sunglasses
- Lace-up boots
- Silver jewelry & chains
- Designer belt
- Fedora
- Black handbag
- Spooky graphic tee

Rock & Brews

Rockstar Plate of Flavor

GRAPEVINE, TEXAS

Sometimes you're not craving fine dining sophisticated food found in white-tablecloth restaurants.

Sometimes your tastebuds need a juicy cheeseburger, double pepperoni pizza and saucy hot wings.

Enter Rock & Brews!

This Grapevine spot isn't just focused on delivering quality American comfort food to your table. It's about the vibes too. With rock-and-roll memorabilia, music, concert-style energy and a lively atmosphere, dinner can feel like a night out.

You know that feeling you have after leaving the best concert? Rock & Brews continues that energy. Featuring music from legendary icons to newcomer favorites all while loud conversations bounce from table to table.

You won't come back just for their delicious dishes like the Birria Beef Dip Sandwich, Gastropub Burger or Blackened Chicken Pasta.

You'll return for the atmosphere and positive vibes this place leaves with you. Just as the the saying kind of goes, music and food are good for the soul.

Hall's Pumpkin Farm & Corn Maze

Grapevine, Texas

BUILDING FAMILY TRADITIONS.
CREATING LASTING MEMORIES.

Partaking in autumn festivities doesn't require a grand-expensive affair. Sometimes the sweetest and most nostalgic fall experience is waiting right in your own backyard.

Tucked away in Grapevine, Texas, Hall's Pumpkin Farm & Corn Maze is a 45-acre family-owned destination filled with scarecrows, farm animals, hay bales, vintage farm tractors and more than two acres of corn stalks. Did I mention the vast amount of pumpkins and gourds?

Experience classic fall activities like getting lost in the two-acre corn maze, taking a tractor-pulled hayride, feeding farm animals, snapping photos with scarecrows and don't forget to pick up your unique pumpkins and gourds.

Plus, there's the "feed lot", which is a nickname for their concessions area. You'll find all the classic fall bites served up here like funnel cakes, fresh kettle corn, steaming cups of apple cider, burgers, nachos, hot dogs, loaded fries and more.

I went one year and found the cozy, small-town autumn experience I had been craving. My family and friends weren't just trying something new, we were making memories. It was a chance to enjoy the season together and create our own little Grapevine fall tradition.

New Family Tradition

My Little Fall Corner

Welcoming fall into your home can start with simple decor. Even the smallest setup will transform your space into a cozy autumnal corner.

Pick an area you'll see often such as the dining room table, a side table, the spot next to your coffee pot or even a little corner in your bedroom.

Begin with a variety of pumpkins in different colors and sizes. Pumpkins instantly bring that traditional fall feeling. Arrange them in a way that feels natural to you.

Liven up your space with a few little autumn essentials such as acorns, pine cones, or a few faux leaves scattered along the way.

For some pretty drama, add beautiful seasonal steams like golden sunflowers, red-orange mums or burgundy dahlias in a bold vase.

You don't need much to make a space feel like fall.

Just some cute and thoughtful touches can turn your home in your own little autumn moment.

The Art of the Little Ritual

A lemon-lavender moment for slowing down

Wellness isn't always about taking vitamins, eating a salad, exercising, or sipping on protein smoothies. Sometimes focusing on your well-being simply means allowing yourself time to slow down and relax.

During the busiest parts of the day, particularly in the afternoon, I can start to feel a little drained. Between running errands, working, writing, and everything in between, sometimes I need a gentle reminder that it's okay to sit down and just chill.

Enter: CAAN Hi Boy Lemon Lavender Social Tonic.

It's a bubbly refreshing drink that's delightfully delicate when served chilled. The lemon and lavender really come through, making it the perfect little sip when reading a good book. Fun little secret, I like it with a bag of gummy Skittles.

This October, I'm making more room for my little sips. I'm remembering wellness also means to give yourself room to breathe.

And yes, I'll make sure to chill...including the drinks. 🍹

THIS MONTH'S MOOD: Embrace all the small things that spell out autumn.

5 Things

I'm Currently Romanticizing

Autumn has arrived and you already know I'm romanticizing all things pumpkin-spiced and everything nice in between. It's the kickoff to all of my end-of-the-year celebrations with the family. So we make fall a big deal around our home and embrace everything including the little things this season has to offer.

1. NIGHTTIME PUMPKIN PATCHES

Classic fall activity includes visiting a pumpkin patch and eyeing the beautiful seasonal flowers in the afternoon. Pumpkin Nights takes a different route and showcases a galore of pumpkins, spooky Halloween decor along with tons of fall activities at night.

2. ALWAYS A TRIP TO THE FARMERS MARKET PLEASE

We enjoy good food in our house and a trip to the farmer's market goes without discussion. Dallas Farmer's Market not only has quality food but the local products are worth trying too. The jalapeno pimiento cheese by Texas Curds is a must-try!

3. THE BAG MAKES THE OUTFIT TOO

One of the reasons I enjoy carrying this handbag in the cooler months is because it looks so polished and classy with trench coats, knit sweaters, ankle boots and velvet skirts. It's easily one of my go-to handbags when getting ready.

4. SMELLING LIKE AN AUTUMN DESSERT

It's a pleasure to have your home smelling like fresh baked sweet potato pie, cinnamon streusel muffins or apple cider donuts. How about this in your beauty products? Bath & Body Works Marshmallow Pumpkin Latte is a scent I always have in my fall body care routine.

5. CAN'T FORGET THE TEXAS OUTING

The beginning of October is the time of year where every child, adult and Texan indulges in tender juicy turkey legs, pillowy soft cotton candy, fried-everything, the Ferris wheel and rival college football games. Goes without saying, the State Fair of Texas is always on the to-do list.

Falling in the Marigold Round of Autumn

Dear Autumn,

Bring me your glorious marigolds in a rustic old vase.

Bring me cinnamon and nutmeg by the case.

Bring me a nod to the classic films on a projector.

Bring me your colorful leaves and I'll become a collector.

Bring me raindrops trickling down my window pane.

Bring me tractor hayrides and a vintage train.

Bring me caramel apples and sweet candy corn.

Bring me knit sweaters and flannels slightly worn.

Bring me pumpkins with a natural embellishment.

Bring me white gourds and red mums for a new element.

Bring me a reason to get lost in your corn maze.

Bring me cows, goats and sheep to watch as they graze.

Bring me burnt orange and burgundy wine.

Bring me chilly winds, that's fine.

Bring me a home that smells like apple and chai.

Bring me a season that never says goodbye.
